

Emerging Leaders Council

Mile High United Way's Emerging Leaders Council brings the passion and philanthropic power of young professionals together to create a better community. Through the development of emerging leaders in the community, we inspire, educate and empower others to bring about meaningful change by:

- Connecting young professionals with each other and business/ community leaders.
- Engaging like-minded young professionals through unique volunteer opportunities.
- Providing opportunities for leadership education and service.

We support programs in all five counties of the metropolitan area.

As an Emerging Leader, you will enjoy many benefits and exclusive events throughout the year designed to help you improve leadership skills, learn about the community, and increase personal contacts.

- Social Events - Held throughout the year at a variety of locations around metro Denver. These fun networking events allow members to expand their personal and professional networks.
- Volunteer Projects - Opportunities for ELC members and their families to volunteer at Mile High United Way Community Partners that empower neighborhoods, strengthen our schools and improve communities.
- Learning with Leaders - A series of professional and personal development engagements including CEO lunches, leadership seminars, board development trainings, and much more.

You decide your level of involvement. Mile High United Way's Emerging Leaders Council is designed to offer something different for all its members.

- Find out more by attending and participating in any Emerging Leader's social function or volunteer project for FREE.
- Young professionals will be invited to professional development and special events with top community and business leaders by generously donating $42 or more a month to the philanthropic organization of their choice through Mile High United Way.
- To receive invites to ELC events please sign up for our newsletter at www.UnitedWayDenver.org/elc.
